

Example Problem

A nationwide retail chain reports that 47% of all customers prefer shopping with the company's mobile app rather than in-store. A market research firm surveys 1025 randomly selected customers and records the sample proportion who prefer the mobile app.

Find the probability that the sample proportion is within 2 percentage points of the true value (47%).

Show all steps using the SPDC structure.